We are inviting applications for a

Post-doc in Archaeology (2-years fixed term) at the School of Human Sciences , University of Kalmar, Sweden , starting as soon as possible. From January 2010 we will be part of the new Linnaeus University .

The job is a new position awarded to us by the Vice-Chancellor in recognition of our research achievements in archaeology during the past four years. We need a strong researcher who can actively contribute to the further development of archaeological research at Kalmar . We expect the appointed post-doc to complete a research project within two years. We especially invite projects that relate to our current research interests which are described on the University's research database (<http://www2.hik.se/applikationer/forskningspresentation/subject.aspx?subjectid=29>). General information about archaeology at Kalmar can be found on our webpages <http://www.hik.se/hv/arkeologi> .

Applicants must have received their Doctoral degree between 3 March 2006 and 2 March 2009. The candidate should have previous experience in project work and a proven ability both to produce academic work at international level and to attract external research funding in academic competition.

The new post-doc will spend up to a maximum of 20% of his/her time on teaching. Most of our teaching is held in Swedish but we are developing courses in English too.

Deadline for receipt of applications is 2 March 2009. Further details concerning requirements for applicants are available from Cornelius Holtorf , Head of Archaeology at Kalmar : cornelius.holtorf@hik.se.

The present announcement in English is an informal translation only. The official job advertisement with full details is available at http://www.hik.se/pages/cgi-bin/PUB_Latest_Version.exe?allFrameset=1&pageId=264 . If you are not familiar with the Swedish application procedure please contact us well before the deadline to seek advice. (There is no formal requirement of Swedish language skills but much of the academic life in Kalmar takes place in Swedish and Swedish skills or a commitment to acquire the language would be an advantage for any international candidate.)
